

Weather Control

During the last half century farming has become a more and more highly specialized vocation, as scientific and mechanical progress have gradually given the farmer wider knowledge and better tools with which to carry on his work. In the days when the West was first opened up for cultivation, little was known of means to combat rust, drought, insects, early frosts, and all the many hazards which threatened the crop each season. During the intervening years, however, these problems have been wholly or partially solved, and efforts are continually being made to bring about further advances in scientific methods of farming.

: Drive And Live Long :

Winter adds measurably to the hazards of driving, and some of us who have not yet satisfied ourselves with a promised new car, have those hazards somewhat increased. But reasonable care is still the best safeguard whether your car be new or old.

For instance, Winter increases the hazard of carbon monoxide and agricultural co-operators to make it worse. Still a little headwork may offset these disadvantages. The National Safety Council has offered some suggestions. Open the garage door before starting the motor. Resist the impulse to warm the motor up in a closed room. Such a practice tends to make seclusion a permanent matter.

YOUTHFUL WRITER BLAMES LIQUOR- DRINKING ADULTS

The following letter from a high school student was published in the Montgomery, Alta., Advertiser:

If this is a democracy, we young people also have a right to express our opinions. The papers have been shockingly full recently of reports as to the delinquency and vandalism emanating from the youth of this and other communities.

They call it "juvenile" delinquency and ask, "What can be done about it?"

Statistics amply confirm it. According to medical men, an average decrease of five per cent. in body weight would measurably increase the life expectancy of our people. That many citizens regard as "moderate overweight" steps up dramatically by as much as 150 per cent. particularly among middle-aged and older persons.

At the same time, Europe faces a hungry winter. Crops have been uniformly poor. Europe hasn't the dollars to buy food from this coast.

New Bridge Replaces One Of Few Remaining Links With Old West

RODINA, Sask.—If plans of the provincial government go through, one of the most contentious of subjects in Saskatchewan will be settled. Premier Gault has announced his government has plans for building a $500,000 bridge across the South Saskatchewan river at Saskatchewan Landing.

At a meeting in Swift Current the premier got a hearty endorsement from his listeners when he outlined plans for the bridge. Members of the audience from north of the river had made a great deal of noise about the bridge.

When the river is open, an overhead crossing is not as strong through the bridge as it is when the river is open, a primitive, non-engineered ferry makes the crossing, sometimes scores of times a day. It is the only way across the river.

Back about the time of the first settlement in 1885, the people of the Swift Current and Kildare districts began talking about a bridge. At that time, troops and supplies moved to the north to quell the rebellion were all ferried over the river, and the crossing was something of a bottleneck. The government proposed, over-ferrying with their horses and wagons, an outfit under the ancient ferry bridge, along a cable across the river, the downward current converted to a sideway thrust that would send the chains away from the north side of the stream.

Last summer, the ferry ran day and night, sometimes carrying more than 200 and 300 vehicles at a time. In the morning, the ferry was at the head of the river, and in the afternoon, it was at the head of the river. The ferry was at the head of the river, and in the afternoon, it was at the head of the river.

It is really on one occasion the ferry was carrying the creek down the river, the cable along with it, managed to get the ferry back to the head of the river, and the cable was at the head of the river.

As farm settlers moved in, the government took over operation of the ferry and crossing. The ferry was at the head of the river, and in the afternoon, it was at the head of the river.

Alberta's New Salt Plant To Produce Purest Product

Will Have Two-Two Expenditure Units Operating On Huge Resources. Capacity Of 135 Tons Per Day

Alberta's new independent salt plant now under construction at Elk Point, some 20 miles southeast of St. Paul, is well on the way to completion. The plant is being built by the Calgary-based company of Alberta Salt Co. Limited, which is a subsidiary of the Alberta Salt Co. Limited. Two salt wells have already been completed at the plant, as well as three natural gas wells. The plant is being built by the Calgary-based company of Alberta Salt Co. Limited, which is a subsidiary of the Alberta Salt Co. Limited.

By scientific control and regulation of these stages the company will produce a complete line of salt. From the salt-free stage the variety to the most refined type of salt is produced. The plant is being built by the Calgary-based company of Alberta Salt Co. Limited, which is a subsidiary of the Alberta Salt Co. Limited.

The company's huge salt resources lie between 2,500 and 4,000 feet below the surface. They comprise both the pure crystal salt and the thick brine. The plant is being built by the Calgary-based company of Alberta Salt Co. Limited, which is a subsidiary of the Alberta Salt Co. Limited.

Every year these deposits furnish an extensive geological investigation. The plant is being built by the Calgary-based company of Alberta Salt Co. Limited, which is a subsidiary of the Alberta Salt Co. Limited.

of the government, most people will agree. What is suggested, however, is that had this class of veterans been given equality of treatment with such civil servants, there would be little cause for criticism.

Local and District

Tom McAuliffe is home in Delia for the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dechene were visitors to Calgary over the week end.

Miss Mary Morrison arrived in Delia on Sunday, to spend Christmas with the folks.

Robt. Gibson, of Calgary, arrived home on Saturday for the Christmas vacation.

Mrs. M. E. Swayne motored to Calgary with her nephew, Milton Hamilton, on Wednesday last.

Born, at Drumheller Hospital, on Sunday, December 14, 1947, to Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Thompson, of the Victor district, a son.

C. D. Holm, of Craignyle, left on Friday last for Vancouver, B.C., where he will visit with his family for a month or more.

Allan Macpherson and Charles Church arrived back in Delia on Sunday morning, following an extended holiday in Calgary.

Mervin Johnson, of the R.C.N., was at home on Monday. He made a special credit trip to Calgary, and was able to spend a few hours in Delia before returning to Esquimalt.

The Starline Hockey League game played at Orkney on Wednesday afternoon, December 17, between Delia and Orkney, resulted as a tie—Delia, 6; Orkney, 2.

Fair weather favored the closing days of the Christmas shopping season. A little snow fell on Friday, but it remained mild. Sunday was a very fine day, with temperatures rising up to 34 degrees. At the time of writing (Tuesday), it remains fine.

Owing to the village secretary, Leslie Stephens, having tendered his resignation, effective March 1st, a joint meeting of the village council and the school board was held in the Village Hall on Saturday, December 13, for the purpose of appointing a new secretary-treasurer. Applications were considered and discussed, and the meeting closed following the appointment of Chas. Hamilton, which was agreed upon without dissent.

Major-General G. R. Penik, V.C. (Prog.-Conservative), was the bitter critic of Mr. King, asking whether pension increases, which are approximately 11 per cent, were based on the cost of living, which government statistics has announced as 43 per cent above normal.

Mr. King's reply was non-committal, yet in one respect the Progressive-Conservative membership had justification for his attack. An increase of merely $10 monthly for totally disabled veterans of Canada's armed forces is characterized of the worst kind. It is to be presumed that the term "totally disabled" indicates that such a veteran is a grave casualty who is "totally" unable to earn anything whatsoever to assist either himself or his family in the struggle for existence. In these days of constantly increasing costs in the basic needs of life, surely it is not too much to demand that while others who had stayed at home demand more and more wages, men who have been thus struck down in the battle for Canada's freedom should be given far more generous treatment.

By way of comparison, even a grade I civil service clerk, typist or stenographer, is to receive an increase of $260 per annum over 1939 salaries. That such an increase was long overdue in the case of these underpaid servants of the government, most people will agree. What is suggested, however, is that had this class of veterans been given equality of treatment with such civil servants, there would be little cause for criticism.

What Does the Farmer Want For Christmas?

Letbridge Experimental Station
Weekly Letter

In our family we have the rule that each child must ask for only one gift from Santa Claus each year. We try to instill in the children the idea that there are millions of other children that Santa has to visit, so there must be a limit to what he can give to each one. We feel that this is a good rule because there are so many exciting things the children would like to have, and it is only by placing a limit that they really evaluate their desires.

Even when we grow up we are much like children, in that there are so many things we think we would like to have. It seems that every one in society continually is asking for more and more, without giving full thought to the fact that there may be a limit to what even a big Santa Claus can manage to give. We know that there isn't any Santa Claus in real life even at Christmas. In the final analysis it is the pocketbook that says "and is not the same thing that thought through our relationships in society anything that costs money is concerned?" In the final analysis we pay for what we want.

What then does the farmer really want for Christmas? If one reads the newspapers in reality he is at the conclusion that the farmer wants more money. But that is the real answer? The writer isn't sure of the answer, but has the feeling that money is not the last word in the farmer's life. It is not that the farmer really wants recognition for his work. It is the fact that for too long he has been looked upon as a lower member of our so-called human race. It is one of the most important members of human society? If this recognition becomes a reality, if the importance of the farmer in national life is recognized, and he is accepted, he will be the best Christmas present the farmer could give.

That's the Christmas present we would give to the farmer. We aren't sure Santa Claus will give him this present for this year, but we believe he will get it some day soon and be pleased with it when it comes.

All members of the staff of the Experimental Station, Letbridge, join in wishing all our friends, farmers and other allies, a very Merry Christmas.
